ÖZEL APPOINTS INTERIM AIR FORCE COMMANDER

July 20, 2014

ANKARA – General Necdet Özel, Chief of the General Staff of the Turkish Armed Forces, announced today the appointment of an interim Commander of the Turkish Air Force to replace General Mehmet Erten, who resigned suddenly and mysteriously last week. General Ibrahim Firtina, former director of Turkish Air Force Intelligence Services, has been selected as Interim Commander of the Turkish Air Force. “General Ibrahim will provide continuity and stability in this moment of change,” Özel said in a press statement.

General Mehmet Erten resigned suddenly last week, releasing a statement that hinted at conflict within the Turkish Armed Forces high command and the National Security Council, which works alongside the Turkish president and parliament to craft Turkish foreign policy.

Dear Dr. Heuer,

Thank you very much for the offer of the position. I am very excited about the opportunity. You should know, however, that it is one of several I am considering at the moment. I was hoping you and your colleagues might consider increasing the offered salary to 98,000€. Also, I want a guarantee that I will have two full-time assistants (preferably postdoctoral researchers) to aid me in my research. Finally, in order to accept this position, I will need CERN to grant me top-level security clearance for research into nuclear applications of new AI technologies.

My acceptance of the position is contingent on the fulfillment of these requests. Please let me know at your earliest convenience. Thanks again.

Best,

KM
